SEMINAR

Trng. Code: SML-V01

Metrics drive behavior and are prime enablers to channel organizational resources and energy to accomplish the goals and objectives. While the most successful organizations have honed in on key metrics that drive and demonstrate results, per our benchmarking research, most organizations have not been as successful. Designing the metrics' strategy is truly a leadership responsibility. This intense one-day leader session will enable leaders to develop a customized metrics structure that will motivate all employees to accomplish organizations mission and vision and at the same time avoid the common pitfalls.
